

The Re-Genesis Encyclopedia is a new resource at CIIS Library that has been in process since 1980, starting with 12 years of research in the Near East, North Africa and Europe. Given extensive study over the past 28 years, this index now documents and archives the existence and influence of feminist spirituality across disciplines, cultures, and historical periods from 3,000,000 BCE to the new millennium, 2000 CE. As an annotated chronology of the spiritual mother-line from the Hominid ancestry supported by a profusion of photographic images from sacred sites and museums around the world, Re-Genesis Encyclopedia is the first feminist spirituality database of its kind.

This endeavor is designed as a trans-cultural-and-historical multimedia project for an on-line database that includes thousands of cross-referenced links. Until these links and all other technical aspects of this multimedia project are completed, a Beta version will be available as a PDF file. Also until the images from the GSA slide collection, (Goddess Sites and Artifacts) are integrated, suggest using the Archive of Research in Archetypal Symbolism (ARAS) that is also located in the Archaeomythology Research Guide.

For access, go to CIIS Library home page <http://library.ciis.edu/> > Find Articles + > down to > Archaeomythology Research Guide under Find Articles > Archetypal Archive of Symbols, Sites, and Images. Although access to ARAS requires user name and password, the Re-Genesis Encyclopedia is freely available to and for all. From the very start, widespread availability was always the dream.
